Alamance County Board of Health Holds Annual Awards Ceremony

BURLINGTON- On December 18th, the Alamance County Board of Health held its annual awards ceremony at the Alamance County Health Department recognizing the work of employees and community partners.

The Board of Health recognized Pandora Oliver as the recipient of the Alamance County Health Department's 2018 Employee of the Year Award. The 2018 Employee of the Year award is selected by the Board of Health from nominations from health department staff.

The Board of Health also recognizes outside agencies, organizations, or individuals that have partnered with the health department with the Public Health Partnership Award and the Public Health Champion Award. The Board of Health recognized Alamance County Public Library as the 2018 Public Health Partnership Award recipient. Alamance County Public Library was recognized for its continuous support and collaborative efforts with the health department on various literacy initiatives such as Reach Out and Read Read. The Board of Health recognized Robert "Bob" Byrd as the 2018 Public Health Champion Award recipient. Bob Byrd is a former Alamance County Commissioner and has contributed many hours serving on boards and committees in support of the physical, mental, and social health of the county.

Health Director Stacie Saunders recognized Jessica L. Johnson with the Health Director's Living Our Values Award. This award is presented to an employee who exemplifies the core values of the health department: Integrity, Compassion, Teamwork, Communication, and Accountability.

Also recognized were retirees Terry Rudd, Glenda Linens, Cheryl Starr, Janice Tilley, Vicki Ashworth, and Robin Clapp in appreciation of their years of service to Alamance County, and Alamance County Board of Health members William Kent Tapscott and Robert "Bob" Byrd in appreciation of their service to the Board.
